Society Restaurant is one of Melbourne's premier Italian restaurants, cocktail lounge and function room venues. Pleasing punters with modern Italian fare, wines and cocktails, Society sets itself apart from the competition with its attentive service, familiarity and long standing history.

Opened in 1932 when Guiseppe Codognotto, an Italian immigrant, no longer could bare the frustration of not having a place in Melbourne for the Italian community to eat and congregate, Society has been the home of many memories for Melbournians. Once the Italians moved to Lygon Street, Melbournians then warmed to the Italian food and hospitality provided by Guiseppe's son Rino and Daughter Rina.

Rino fast became the face of The Society and was one of Melbourne's original "Spaghetti Mafia", so named by the media for their role in bringing the finest Italian hospitality to our shores. The private dining area, known as "Rino's Room" is adorned with chandeliers and bunkets, this room is perfect for that special dining experience.
